This year's Variety Show, Nightline '89, was a great performance, created by the senior class members and class advisors. The direction of the show fell upon the shoulders of Tom Caruso, an established Weston Drama Company actor, and obviously a successful director. Tom knew the job was going to be a tough one, "Because when you get a whole bunch of people working on a project like this, everyone has their own ideas and everybody wants their ideas to be used."

Tom's forecasting was correct. Everyone did have ideas they wanted used, but Tom and the class advisors, Mrs. Brown and Ms. DaCosta, had to decide which skits and lines were appropriate and which of those would be selected. "It was a real mess," recalled Tom. "In the last week of production, the show hadn't been worked through once." The class realized, at this point, they had to team up if the show was to be produced. Class members decided to accept compromises and began to help each other with direction and minor line changes.

Then on the third day of March, the class of 1989 went for broke and on that night, and the next night, they put on an exciting show that will be remembered by all.

Senior Activities

BELOW: Phil Wen, Adam Perrin, and Craig Josephs enjoy some "good" food at the Condake's Yearbook Signing Party.

March 3 and 4 brought the beginning of the culmination of activities for the class of 1989. The Variety Show was a time for seniors to display their talents to interested parents, students and friends. Two weeks later, on March 16, the senior class relaxed and enjoyed a lovely evening of dining and dancing with classmates and faculty. Mrs. Delduchetto, Mrs. Fishburn and Mrs. Hablow, the class mothers, were responsible for organizing this event — The Senior Banquet — which included anecdotal comments by Mrs. Frenning, the guest speaker; a slide show; the presentation of gifts; and music provided by David Fuller's band.

The new refreshment stand, the senior class gift, was formally initiated on April 29 at the Eastern Mass. Coaches Track Meet. From nine until three, the seniors were busy serving hot dog, soda, coffee and other goodies to hungry participants and spectators.

Tuesday night, May 23, seniors and their parents gathered together for the Pot Luck dinner. This was an evening to take time from their final days of high school classes to reminisce and socialize with their parents and classmates. The evening included recognition of several seniors for their efforts on behalf of the class, presentation of gifts and a slide show.

Senior week finally arrived. On Wednesday, May 31, exams and rehearsals behind them, seniors enjoyed swimming in the rain at the Yearbook Signing Party hosted by the Condakes. Class Day followed on Thursday. Emotions ran high, smiles were abundant and tinges of apprehension were detected as the class was presented to the audience in the gym. Marching perfectly to strains of Pomp and Circumstance, the final hours of high school life were winding down.

Graduation In Style

Graduation day dawned all crystal and blue. Never had the Town Green been set up more efficiently. Never had a set of seniors been more cooperative.

By noon, the sun had clouded over. At four the rain struck and electricity went out in the Center. Water was an inch deep at the bottom of the Green. Disappointed seniors were on the buses headed for the high school gym.

There, everything was a frenzy of improvisation. Fathers took off their jackets and helped carry chairs from the cafeteria. The class day seating was recreated for the Seniors. The battered old podium was trundled in from the speech room — and then replaced by the new one, which a rain-soaked set of custodians had rescued from the Green.

Somebody carried in a bouquet of flowers. Tony Librot improvised a sound system — which luckily worked. The television crew set up shop. Band chairs arrived and were dried off. Alfred Day tuned his bagpipe and located the faculty, who were waiting in the Home Economic's room. The seniors lined up in the auditorium.

Only fifteen minutes late, the ceremony began. The piper played; the band played; the seniors entered — some damp — all smiling. Everyone cheered. Fathers took pictures. Grandmothers beamed. Mothers wept. Everyone got the right diploma. We had ourselves a graduation!

When it was over, most agreed that it had been just fine. "It was a lot more personal and close. I wasn't as scared," one senior said.

Later on, during the all-night mystery ride, one of the buses was stolen. But that's another story.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream"

A note from the director:

Although Shakespeare is the greatest artist ever to write for the stage, he was not a fanatic about consistency. In A Midsummer Night's Dream, he has gently intertwined three stories and three theatrical styles. His court characters are at once the heroes of legend and folklore and remarkably contemporary; the rustic characters are plainly Elizabethan, and the forest creatures are drawn from a wide range of sources, including homey fables Shakespeare probably heard as a child. Yet, when these various characters first appeared on stage nearly four hundred years ago, they all appeared in the clothing of Shakespeares' own era. Shakespeare's theater did not attempt historical accuracy in costume, but used a design style that would help an audience understand the nature of the characters.

This has been our approach as well. For this production, students in theater design tried to intertwine the regal, the rustic and the "highly fantastical," trying always to create costumes, light, settings and sound that would convey character and mood without over-meticulous attention to "historical accuracy." In creating designs for this lovely play of separation and union, they tried to weave a variety of styles together into a single, united cloth.

LEFT: Oberon, the King of Shadows, casts a spell on Titania, Queen of the Fairies — one which causes Nick Bottom to appear as a jackass in Titania's eyes. Puck anxiously watches the shady proceedings. ABOVE: Lysander, deeply in love with Hermia, proposes marriage to her.

It's Our Style To Perform

BELOW: Jennifer Abbondonzio looks on as Julie Choi receives carnations.

RIGHT: Alexsis Wood stares "zombified" by the eerie music of Jefferson Airplane's song, White Rabbit. BELOW: As a member of the Concert Band, Amy Wilson waits for the conductor's signal to begin.

BELOW: Anne Donnolly "feels" the emotion of her solo in "Les Miserables."

The Pop's Concert was a resounding success — from the Boy's Glee Club rendition of "Splish-Splash," to the enchanting melodies of the Concert Band, to the overpowering medley from "Les Miserables."

Notable was the traditional waltz, involving parents and children, with members of the chorus going into the audience to select their dad's, mom's, grandmother's or grandfather's for a "little trip down memory lane."

Soloists Anne Donnelly, Julie Choi, Amy Oelgeschlager, Leah Wheelock, Jeanine McCracken, David Flemming and Adam Dugas added greatly to the performance. An abundance of talent was demonstrated that evening, both instrumentally and vocally — talent that was recognized by a delighted audience.

Pop's Concert "Alice"

Black and white checkerboards in distorted forms swirl around in your mind; the eerie music of Jefferson Airplane's White Rabbit plays as the slinking figures of the cast crawl slowly across the stage — animal like — to form a giant, perverted tree and rabbit hole. Alice and the sister walk out onto the stage, zombified, in sharp contrast to the crawling, slinking, evil creatures before them. "Alice. Alice. Alice. the hole. the hole. the hole." Eeerie voices! Alice falls down one rabbit hole and is somersaulted about the stage by the ghoulish cast.

So begins the first scene of this year's student production Alice, adapted for the stage by Adam Dugas. From the beginning ghoulishness; to the subtle lunacy of the Duchess, to the playful madness of the Cheshire Cat; to the wild craziness of the Mad Tea Party complete with whipped cream; to the overpowering bellow of the Queen of Heart's" off with your head;" the evil, ghoulishness and lunacy come together to create an Alice different from any other version you've ever seen.

MIDDLE BELOW: Darlene DiBona and Susie Huizinga in Florence.

Everyone enjoyed the trip to Italy arranged by Mr. Taberski, "There is nothing like Venice in the spring," said one of the participants. "This was a wonderful group of students to travel with," several adults were heard to say.

Italy Trip Close-up

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Taggart, Weston High School students spent nearly a week in Washington, D.C. as part of a national program called Close-up. While there, they were given opportunities to learn about the "workings" of our government, and also the "see" the sights. "This was one of the most valuable and educational trips I've ever taken," one student was heard to say upon his return to the high school.

The terms "Weston track" and "excellence in athletics" have become virtually synonymous!

Once again the Boys' team earned the right be called the best as they completed their season at 7-0, thereby capturing the DCL championship. "I was optimistic they might go undefeated," said Coach Don Duncan. "I've got a large contingent of seniors who've been excellent performers for three years." The team went on to place first in both the Class D Eastern Meet and the State Coaches Relays. Named as DCL All-Stars were James Craig, Dane Fletcher, Nat Harrison, Jon Fishburn, Rob Fortune, Justin Lukach, and Adam Perrin.

Girls' track also had an unblemished 7-0 season, one which brought them the DCL title for the first time since 1986. "This feels great," said Coach John Monz, "The team is mostly freshmen and sophomores, but I've been pleased with their performance all season." The girls ended the season with an impressive second place in the Class D Eastern Meet, due in no small measure to the contributions of DCL All-Stars Christy Britton, Dana Hanson and Tammy Peeples.

tennis teams are DCL CHAMPS

The Boys' Tennis Teams' disappointing 3-2 loss to Acton-Boxboro, early in the season, spurred the team to win the rest of the league matches. The Wildcats pulled one out against archrival Lincoln Sudbury and steam-rolled over both Lincoln Sudbury and Acton-Boxboro the second time around, then slipped past Boston Latin to capture the DCL title.

The team won the Eastern Mass title by defeating Framingham South, Brookline, Belmont and, in the finals, Framingham North. In addition, the team's top singles player, Terry London, won the M.I.A.A. individual's tourney; while Adam Benjamin and Drew Conrad took the doubles championship. All three, thereby, earned berths on the All-Scholastic Tennis Team. The season was not over, however, as the team competed in the State Tournament, where they were defeated in the first round by Long Meadow. Terry went on to capture the State's Singles title; while Adam and Drew won the States Doubles title.

LEFT. Leeli Brooks and Vicki Shapiro are pleased to have won their match.

The Girls' Tennis Team, led by senior co-captains Kelley Nagi and Vicki Shapiro, capped off a nine win, five loss season with an invitation to the Massachusetts Division I State Tennis Tournament. The team placed third in the DCL standings and should continue to dominate league play during the next three years, as five of its eight varsity players were freshmen. Returning letter winners for the '89-'90 season will be junior Leeli Brooks and freshmen Lucy Craig, Suzy DeLea, Helen London, Kate Roiter and Jennifer Sayles. Kate Roiter was named a DCL All-Star.

It's Our "Style"

Style: 1. Distinctive manner, way, form technique, habit, custom. 2. Mode of expressing thought in language; esp. such use of language as exhibits the spirit and personality of the author. 3. Status or character of being in vogue. 4. The quality which gives distinctive character.

School is not just a brick building which chews up your parents' taxes. Rather, school is a little community created by students and teachers as they interact with one another, form their own social groups, and contribute to the school through sports and activities. This community has a particular way of life and, therefore, a particular style. Sure, we have our trends: "word", boxers, high tops, sometimes even no tops. But the style of the school is more than just stylish trends. Style is the character of the school. It is the way in which we spend our free periods, while wishing we were at McDonalds. Style is the way we eat lunches in the hallways and accidentally trip passers-by, it is the way we support our football team even though they play week-after-week in other towns. We even culminate our high school education in a special style, graduating on the town green to the applause of all sorts of people from the community, not only from our parents and grandparents. This year we have tried to show many aspects of our life at Weston High School. We hope we have captured our unique style.

do it in style

Student Life

To at least one high school student, Student Life means excitement. Just what Student Life means to you depends on you and your perspective.

Student Life might mean working after school to pay for those shopping sprees for which you are so famous; or to buy the gas for your wheels. Or it could mean skiing trips to New Hampshire; or playing in the big Thanksgiving football game.

It might mean watching your friends graduate in June and seeing a whole new life lie waiting before you.

Whatever Student Life means to you, we bet you "do it in style."

Sometimes the prom itself turns out to be disappointing and the activities before and after the dance are the most exciting parts of the evening. Before the dance, the girls get to put on their sleek, low-cut dresses designed to awe their date. At the same time, the boys struggle to fit into their rented tuxedos and overcome the embarrassment of wearing black, rubber shoes that look like galoshes. And what could be quite so exciting as running to the store to buy an almost forgotten corsage, about two minutes before you are supposed to pick up your date?

The excitement builds during the picture-taking session on the front lawn as you and your date try to smile for parents, grandparents, neighbors, and people you have never seen before. Later the guys have a chance to feel manly as they dish out the dough for the limousine and for their date's dinner, haggling with her if she is a women's libber. And after the dance, there are always the infamous bashes which the cops have some instinct for sniffing out.

Last year, however, the dance itself was just as exciting as the rest of the evening. Although some people myself included, just couldn't get the body to boogie, everyone enjoyed listening to Dave Fuller's band. You could also spend time filling up on free sodas, gawking at the decorations, and totally embarrassing your parents by waving to them as they spied on you from the balcony. Due to the "Mardi Gras" theme, the prom turned out to be a real celebration!

transforming Town Hall

Mardi Gras

into Bourbon Street

Setting up for the 1988 Junior Prom, "Mardi Gras", accomplished many things in addition to creating Bourbon Street in the Town Hall. First of all, the class of 1989 really pulled together. Many members contributed much of their time, especially during the few days just before the prom. Whether this was because they were excused from class or thrilled with hanging streamers, we really don't know. Although everyone helped, the "Mardi Gras" theme was brought to life by the really hard work of two individuals recognized as the prom queen and king — Romula Savino and Marc Lucas. Romula should be especially commended for the beautiful mural she designed, a true piece of art.

Work is the first word that comes to mind concerning the prom, but it also involved fun. Preparations were coupled with conversations, food, and music — so that it became a time to enjoy yourself and show class spirit. The fact that our prom was actually in May, and not the scheduled April, also lifted our spirits.

After all the fun was over, there was still work to be done on Saturday morning when the Town Hall had to be cleaned. Many lethargic juniors showed up, tired from their all-nighters; plus a significant number of helpful parents, eager to catch a glimpse of the decorations. Of course, those who helped clean up were able to save a piece of a streamer, or perhaps even a mask, to shove in a drawer at home, a tiny reminder of the huge project.

High School: Batavia High School
College: Michigan State University
Marital Status: Married with three stepsons
High School Activities: 4 yrs. band, 4 yrs. chorus, Yearbook Editor, World Affairs Club, United Nations Assembly, Intramural Sports
College Activities: Work
Hobbies: Golf, swimming, cross country skiing, reading, and hiking.
Favorite Food: chocolate rolls
Favorite Movie: "Sound of Music"
Favorite TV Show: "Murder She Wrote"

Why did you decide to teach?
"It was the absolute last thing in the world that I wanted to do. I decided during the interview process, I would interview for only one teaching job. I applied with the IBM Satum Five Project in Alabama and was accepted. I had an offer from Mutual of New York, and an offer with the Greece Schools, in Rochester, New York. I thought about it and decided to stay close to my home. I also thought that I could go from teaching to industry but not the other way for pay reasons. So I decided to try it for a year. I hated it the first year and all my colleagues told me I had to give it at least three years. So I decided and I ended up loving it.

Have you been a class advisor before?
Yes, to the Classes of 74, 82.

How do you feel about the Class of 1989?
"I like it. Outstanding potential as a class and as individuals. I think we will be hearing and seeing a lot from members of the Class of '89. They always come together to get the job done. They are fun."

Memorable Class Event(s):
Dinners; car washes; nicest prom that Weston High School has ever seen; monumental class gift; eventful, challenging, exciting project of the refreshment stand.

Teaching Experience:
Student Teacher — Plainwell, Michigan
Four years Greece Schools — Greece, NY Math Department, Advisor to Student Council, Ski Team.

Ms. DaCosta

Born: Terciera, Azores — Portugal October 10, 1955
High School: Quebec/St. Anthony's, (New Bedford)
College: Salve Regina, U of Madrid, Boston College
High School Activities: Yearbook, Chorus, Art Club, Spanish Club, French Club, Honor Society, Glee Club
College Activities: International Club, Tennis, Sigma Delta Phi, Phi Delta Phi, Yearbook
Hobbies: Traveling and studying abroad, working with students in various activities
Favorite Food: Portuguese, spicy Spanish style
Favorite Movie: "Gone With the Wind"
Favorite TV Show: "Cosby Show"

Why did you decide to teach?
I always wanted to. I used to teach my dolls.

Have you been a class advisor before?
No.

How do you feel about the Class of 1989?
Fantastic. Super. The class is easy to work with. At the beginning it was harder but over the years years the class has matured. The class has goals and they have responsible leaders.

Most Memorable Event:
Man of La Mancha supper. The night before the soup was made and not refrigerated so it spoiled. It had to be thrown away. I had to dismiss my classes and make the soup once again. To top it all off, the cook didn't show up.

Weston Spirit:
Homecoming

The evening was a rekindling of an old tradition, the gathering of the masses, the student expression of spirit. There was a large turn out for the dance; then slowly people started a mass exodus for the pinnacle of wood erected on the field.

For the first time, since the senior's freshmen year, a bonfire was lit. The fire symbolized the burning ambition to achieve academically, physically, and socially in Weston. People stood in the chilly fall night watching as Mr. Foley introduced the captains of the fall sports and as a torch sparked the wood into flame. The heat spread by the fire warmed people's spirits in anticipation of the coming season. The school year had finally kicked in. Soon the seniors would be filling out applications, juniors would be examining their PSAT scores, and underclassmen would relax without the worries for now.

The lighting of the bonfire did more than just show support of the fall sports; it lit the fuse to an exciting new year.

do they have

Senior Privileges

or don't they?

Regarding senior privileges . . .

Schools, like parents, are caught in the dilemma of how to simultaneously keep their children safe while encouraging their developing autonomy. On one hand, we want our youngsters to develop those management skills they will need when they are on their own; on the other hand, we want to protect them from the risks which we recognize — and they frequently do not.

There are extreme measures which the school could take to assure safety. We could require all students to come and go on school buses. No cars; no risk of auto accidents. Some parents would endorse this; but more will acknowledge that, try as you will, life is still hazardous and maturity requires coping successfully with risks.

Some parents believe that safety can be promoted by severe punishment rigidly enforced when students violate driving restrictions. This too, has its limits. For one thing, it too frequently perverts the relationship of school and students into a game in which the young try to outwit the old — and vice versa. This may meet the psychic needs of rebellious youth, but it makes for a poor education environment.

For myself, I favor senior privileges, but I am quite sure that a resolution of the various complexities cannot be imposed from on high. Seniors themselves must decide that the benefits of off-campus privileges make it worth their while to play by the rules.

celebrating the past

Town Wide 275

living for the future

A woman. A man. Their two kids. A dog. And fourteen pigs. These were the residents of Weston in (1988-275=) 1713.

A High School rock band. A lot of people riding around on floats in a parade. People buying white and maroon anniversary stickers to put on the bumpers of their cars. And more than fourteen dogs, cats, horses, pigs, and other assorted animals. These are some of the residents of Weston in 1988, or rather these are some of the residents that were on the town green on a certain summer Saturday in June of 1988.

The birthday bash for Weston was a huge success. Town historians comment that a lot has happened in these three centuries leading up to this party. In the 1880s there was a problem with rats in one of the stores in the town center. The 1920s contended with an illegal bar in the basement of the town hall. And the 1980s brought problems too, there was a woman running a prostitution house on South Avenue. What corruption and vice.

Although the past has been exciting, the occasion on the town green showed the town's hopes for the present and the future. Weston shall flourish and maybe some day it will be more than a speck on the map. If there is enough spirit to produce an all-day festivity, a barbecue, booths, a parade, etc., then who knows what this spirit could produce some day. Especially from the creative minds of the high school students.

We would like to especially thank Mr. & Mrs. Choi, Mr. & Mrs. Dugas, Mr. & Mrs. Fuller, Mr. & Mrs. Kaden, and Mr. & Mrs. London for their generous help. Congratulations Julie, Adam, Jamal, Greg and Terry!

Julie Choi

Violinist soloist, Julie Choi has played the violin since age five, and currently studies with the master teacher Roman Totenburg at the Longy School of Music. Sophomore year she served as the concert master of the high school's orchestra, of the Senior Northeast District Orchestra, and the All-State orchestra. She is a co-concertmaster of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestras. She was the 1984 winner in Harry Dubbs Memorial Award and appeared as a soloist with the Wellesley Symphony Orchestra and the Boston Civic Symphony Orchestra.

Jamal Fuller

Vocalist . . . Musician . . . Professional Model
This multi-talented young man from Boston fits very comfortably in many areas, but it's plain to see that Jamal's goal is to be a complete entertainer.
Jamal is currently a tenth grader who excels as a musician, student and athlete. He enjoys History and Literature as well as participating in the school band and being a member of the Black Student Union.
Jamal started singing and playing the drums at a young age and has begun studying the piano and composing original music. He has set certain goals for himself musically and is eager to improve.
Jamal has enjoyed success from the release of his first single entitled "Side-tracked" . . . which lead to invitations to be billed as an opening act for such national artists as Rick James, Noel and Joy Winter. Added to his musical accomplishments are his achievements as a professional model — having received the 1987 Barbizon Award for best male model. He enjoys attending concerts and industry events such as BRE and JACK the RAPPER . . . not only to be entertained but to learn more about musical styles and concepts.
Jamal enjoys practicing in the studio and at home and he wants to be the best entertainer that he can be. He realizes hard work, diligence and faith in God are the ingredients necessary for success in the music industry.
Jamal "Serious" Fuller . . . don't be surprised when you hear this name. He'll soon be a household name.

Greg Kaden

When I learned how to play chess at age five, I had only wanted to spend more time with my father. I didn't know then that chess would become the most important activity in my life. From my first tournament (where I lost six games in five minutes), to the US Open (where I blundered away a seven-hour game at 1:30 A.M.), chess has taught me much about accepting defeat. I realized that crying and throwing the pieces would not help me win the next game. Gradually I learned to put the frustration of my losses behind me and concentrate on playing my best.

Fortunately, my chess career has not been all defeats. I have won nearly 40 local, state and national tournaments. By winning numerous games against strong competition, I have achieved the rank of National Expert, which only 1% of all US chess-players attain. Currently, I am ranked fourth nationally among high school players and 42nd nationally among players under the age of 21.

Chess has given me the opportunity to travel. In addition to tournaments in New England, I have played matches in Tennessee, Washington, Arizona and Pennsylvania. I was invited to New York City to study with one of the nation's leading players and to play in the US Under-16 Championship. During the summer of 1986, I was selected to travel to Iceland as a member of the US Junior team where we played a match against the best young Icelandic players. The following year we had a rematch in New York.

In seventh grade, I taught my two best friends how to play chess and we formed a team which finished second at the New England Junior High Three-Man Team championship. In high school, I initiated and advised the Chess Team which has won three Eastern Mass Four-Man Championships. During my four years of high school I have had eleven students, ranging from an eight-year old neighbor to a 70-year old concert pianist.

How the Grinch Stole Halloween

In the days when the Grinch was real naughty and mean,
He decided to ruin some kids'
Halloween.
The Grinch hated laughter, the Grinch hated fun,
and that night he heard it up on his mountain.

He kept a large wagon in the back of his cave.
So, he grabbed poor dog Max,
whom you know.
Down the mountain they hurled
and they crashed through trees,
Till they reached the village below.

The wagon went a-zoomin' right
through main street,
Taking down fences and a few
parking meters.
They scattered some E.T.'s and other trick-o-treaters,
Even knocked a few children clean off their feet.

But for the Grinch who was grinning this was just the beginning.
That night he hid in the bushes
and when a kid came round,
He jumped out right in front of him and made a frightful sound.
Some children fainted right away,
he almost killed poor Dave,
For the Grinch is really ugly when he has forgotten to shave.

Behavior modifications took Mrs. Rhodes over the edge and she returned as a clown.

BELOW: The masked and the unmasked; the unknown ghoul, Mark Parrish and Dave Fleming.

MIDDLE: The new Weston linebackers, Shay Thomas, Leah Wheelock and Julie Sullivan. Guys, looking forward to football practice today! Psyche, trick or treat!

While the kids just froze in fear,
The Grinch stripped them neatly of their treats.
Then he gave a little sneer,
And refilled their baskets with beets.

He filled the whole wagon with his plunder
And whipped Max into pulling the load.
The dog was small, and he struggled,
And twice he feel flat in the road.

The Grinch he slashed some tires and pelted windows with eggs.
and when he found a teenage party he stole both of their kegs.
But the Grinch wasn't through yet;
he had much more to do.
He stuffed a mailbox with shaving cream and wrote satanic messages on the door.

Then the Grinch saw some lights,
They were flashing, they were blue!
And the Grinch started shaking
and he turned a sickly hue,
For these were the policemen ready to read him his rights.

The cops, well they searched Grinch and they took him to jail,
And I'm sorry to say that's the end of our tale.
The moral of this story is, I think,
quite plain to see,
When Halloween comes along next year, always watch your trail.

Siblings

These are the people you try to avoid in the halls, and disclaim any information they give you. Rarely, are these people claimed to be your best friend. These people are your brothers and sisters. Your siblings. And each is, in fact, probably the best friend you will ever have. On the chance that you won't, or don't, let your brother or sister know how important they are, we are going to do it for you. This is for all the siblings in Weston High School.

for the fun

and excitement

What is a weekend? Is it a time to be a huge party animal and come home at 3:00 a.m., or is it a time to study and work extra hard on homework? For Weston's youth, who seek academic excellence, it is a time for both of these ideas. Here's the situation — from 3:00 p.m. till 5:00 p.m., a student has sports practice. Then, he goes home (by car if lucky) and does one and a half hours of work. After this mental strain, a quick jump in the shower followed by the ceremonial five minute dressing. Next, there is the annoyance of organizing your friends to go out; usually to Papa's and then a party at some kid's house. Finally, after all this fun, it is time to go home and catch Late Night with David Letterman. Saturday morning you sleep in till noon, and then wake up and go downstairs. After finding nothing to eat, you venture upstairs, get dressed, and bum around until you either get so tired you fall asleep, or you have some motivation to get off your duff and catch a movie or go shopping with some friends.

Again the dilemma of the nocturnal activities arise. However, the decision is the same as the night before, out for pizza and then to a monster bash. Then back home at 1:00 a.m. and sleeping in until at least one in the afternoon. But this day is no other day, it is Sunday. A day of watching the clock tick down till nighttime, and a day of last minute studying. don't worry though, because before you know it, Friday night will be here again.

brawling with a warrior

smashing pumpkins

The Thanksgiving Day pep rally was a wee bit different this year. First, several teams were recognized for their successful fall seasons. Boys Cross Country finished third in the state for small schools, and eleventh in the state overall. The Girls Field Hockey team were runner up's for the North Sectional State Championship; and Sue Delduchetto was awarded for her efforts this year. As well as Adam Perrin, Co-Captain of the Football team who was awarded the same recognition.

The speakers were more eloquent this year. Coach Porrell rolled off some rhyming couplets, and we all felt good after Coach DiBiaso gave his "good kids" speech. Brian Munson's stirring rhetoric inflamed a hooded Carl Swanson to bash the heck out of a pumpkin; and a Warrior and a Wildcat battled it out in Co-Captain Adam Perrin's impromptu.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Mori unveiled a new song, "I Heard it Through the Grapevine." The cheerleaders put on one of the best shows in many years with an assortment of new cheers and the traditional three-layered pyramid.

We forgot to hold the poster contest, and the classes weren't even judged in the loud-mouth contest. It really doesn't matter; we know the Seniors won anyway and the Freshmen were last. And yes, people actually laughed at the senior skit, or at least it's outcome. For those of you not familiar with the story, Mr. MacDonald threatened to take away the Senior Variety Show if there was any "crap." The skit members charged the Freshmen with yells and no pancakes; they were greeted with flying water balloons. Even though the tradition was missing, the pep rally roused the spirit for the Thanksgiving Game.

a day of rivalries

"Turkey" Day Game

and traditions

The Wildcats entered this year's holiday contest determined to end the season on a high note. During the fall the '88 squad had fought hard to earn a 4-4 record. Everyone on the team, and anyone who witnessed a game can testify that there was potential for many more victories. Unfortunately, the game against Wayland was the last opportunity for Weston to show its stuff.

Wayland was heralded the DCL Football Champion. The Wildcats were itching for the chance to make a moral claim to the DCL title by beating the Warriors. The "Turkey" Day Game was a close, well played match between two competitive rivals. As fate would have it, the Darkside was victorious. The Wildcats will have to wait yet another year to down the orange and the black.

Dedication

Andrew Pastor

Andy was a very special friend of ours. We can approach his death in one of two ways — we can be sad and constantly cry and mourn over his death, or we can reflect back with respect and admiration on all of the things about Andy that made him so wonderful and unique.

One of Andy's greatest qualities was the way that he valued others. He was always there when someone needed him and would bend over backwards for them. With his natural sense of knowing what to do and what to say, he had the ability to always make us feel better. He had an incredible sense of who he was and where he was going. He didn't let the popular opinion stand in his way. Actually, with his sense of humor, ability to relate to others, and charisma, he was able to make his opinion become the popular one. Andy took life lightly, but always strived to be the best that he could be. He was a role model, one that even the best of us could have learned something from.

When I found out about the tragedy, I started to cry, and I felt incredible disbelief. Then, after the initial response, I thought about him. I thought about how he was always able to make me laugh, and how we were able to have fun even when doing the most trivial things. Although I kept having moments of hysterics, it was hard to cry. I thought that something must be wrong with me, my best friend was just tragically killed, so I should be crying. But then I thought to myself, "Andy made me, and everyone laugh, he didn't make us cry." It was then that I realized how special he was to me.

After thinking about this tragedy and trying, both alone and with friends, to develop a rational explanation for this completely unfair event, I created the beginnings of an interpretation. In a way, Andy lived a perfect life — he lived in a fairy-tale society in which it seemed to me that his biggest problems were how he would ever make a Yearbook deadline just as the Post Office was closing, or how he would pass his next pre-cal exam. He seldom felt the pressure of the real world where life is so much more complicated and less forgiving. Although he always worked so hard, he always made a point to have fun along the way and take advantage of his friendships, which I know he treasured so much. His death was immediate and painless, much like his life. Perhaps his death was God's way of sparing him from something worse that lay ahead. Perhaps it will allow our Weston High School class to finally truly pull together.

I know that Andy would be proud of us. We love you Andy!

God give me strength!
Just raise my hands to heaven and let me pray that we will be back together someday.

Tonight and forever I need you.
What we once did have and the times we shared . . .
If I could only hold you once again.
Where is your future? Do I take your path?
If you could only see our sadness as we move closer towards that empty space
Tears roll down my face as I feel these overwhelming emotions; Is it anger, is it sadness?
You were always there with the answers.
Where are you now because I need you . . .

He's gone, He's left us
God how I cry
I can't understand
I won't even try.

classy People

Most people go to school for the people. In fact, some kids actually look forward to returning to school after a long summer vacation, knowing full well the endless hours of homework and drudgery which await them, just so they can see their friends. Friends keep you going, when you are down after receiving a poor grade or after being rejected by some freshmen cutie. And even the people who are not necessarily friends can keep you entertained by getting kicked out of the library for shooting spitballs off the "mushroom," or for starting food fights in the cafeteria.

Finally there are the teachers. Teachers don't just pass out detos, they are people too. At least they deserve not to have their yearbook picture scathed by graffiti-minded students. So without further adieu, here are the people of Weston High.

To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty, to find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived. JUNIORS

The year the Junior class had many obstacles to overcome. We had to raise ourselves out of our freshman year debt, looking forward to our prom which promised to be a spectacular event for our class. We held car washes, fruit sales and a boxer sale to raise money for that night.

Our class has managed to pull itself together to become a "working unit" during this year. More people have been participating in our events, showing concern and dedication towards our class.

We have traveled a long road since freshman year. From PSAT's to SAT's we've had to deal with the pressures of college and beginning to anticipate being seniors and graduation. Thinking back to our freshman year, I remember worrying about problems we'd have to conquer in the high school in years to come. The problems seem much smaller now and the end is much closer.

Together we can overcome any remaining obstacles. Our senior year promises to be incredible and, "as one", we can make it. ○ Jen Allen

Get Your License

Your palms sweat as your hands rhythmically squeeze the wheel. You can feel your heart slowly climbing up your throat as you head out of the parking lot onto the main road. Within five minutes, its over! Congratulations, you've passed your driving test — one of the most anticipated and stress-filled tasks in a teenager's life. Once it's over, your body fills with excitement at thoughts of the new found freedom you are going to encounter.

As you walk into school with your face glowing, friends commend you on a job well done, and ask for a ride home. You show the license to everyone who'll look, your pride is indescribable. The day isn't over until you drop off your last friend, pull into the driveway and swing your keychain around your index finger a few times. You take one last look at your license, then collapse from both exhaustion and relief.

Take The P.S.A.T's

Six Steps To Senior Year

"P.S.A.T.? Isn't that the Pre-Senility Anxiety Trauma?"

The morning of October 15 began as all other, unless one was a Junior taking the inevitable P.S.A.T's. Arriving at school (on a Saturday?) by 8:00 A.M. with two, well-sharpened, No. 2 pencils, I was prepared to conquer the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test.

The results of the P.S.A.T. provide students considering a college career with an opportunity to see strengths and weaknesses in the mathematical and verbal sections. (How many of you know the definition of "archipelago"?) The scores of the S.A.T. are sent with college applications and very often determine a student's eligibility for a particular university.

For a lucky few, the P.S.A.T. is also a chance to enter the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Contest, which recognizes students through honorable mentions and award scholarships.

Despite any anxiety over P.S.A.T. scores, their importance fades in thoughts of a rapidly approaching senior year.

SOPHOMORES

Aah, the sophomore year, infamously known as the Sophomore Slump. We no longer stand timidly like we did as freshmen, dodging any senior coming down the hall, afraid that they were only coming after us to pounce on our frail bodies. Nor do we have any excuses for being tardy to class because we couldn't find our room. Instead, the sophomores are the warriors of the school. We are looked at curiously by the freshman, and the seniors can't really tell if they want to accept us as equals. But that doesn't hold us back. Anticipation for one's driving permit and the glamourous high school parties help make the year go by a little less painfully. And when it gets really boring, there is always the freshmen girls and boys to check out, to do our own kind of pouncing on. Sophomores aren't that different from everybody else in school. It's just that we're, well, sophomores! ○ Adam J. Weiner

Check Out the Freshmen

For the Sophomore class, the social life is composed of a wide variety of events, from going to huge schoolwide parties to sitting home in front of the tube on a lonesome Saturday night. However, there is one thing that almost all of the boys and girls of the tenth grade would attest to: check-out the freshmen. And why not? They are so innocent, so helpless, so vulnerable! The sophs can easily impress them with their upperclass friends, and the relationships they have made with Weston's great teachers. Also, the sophomores are in, well, a kind of a rut concerning members of the opposite sex. In the eyes of the class of '91, the freshmen were invented solely to aid the slumping sophomores. This may appear heartless, but in the year of the slump, so are the sophomores.

Experience a Sophomore Slump

Six Steps To Senior Year

For the class of '91, the infamous Sophomore Slump was felt at full impact. The 88-89 school year still wasn't as bad as freshman year, but, be assured, it certainly was not a nature walk. Often, we were met by seniors at the door to a party who zealously kicked us out. Our hopes for an incredible high school party scene were practically destroyed, but that didn't hold us back. We sophomores could always turn to the freshmen boys and girls for weekend nightlife. But, after being easily accepted, we felt a need to better ourselves, to make us feel . . . older. And, what could be better than driving permits? (other than driving licenses) This helped the year pass a little bit quicker than other years.

The Sophomore Slump is usually terrible, but besides our failure with the seniors, their parties, and our not-so-great relationships with the freshmen, the class of 91's sophomore year wasn't so bad after all.

On September 7, 1988, a new group of Weston High students entered this institution. The first impressions of their "home away from home" for the next four years were varied.

"I've been over here a few times when I was in the Middle School," said one freshman, "but my classes are so far apart, the High School seemed to 'grow' during the summer." "The library is the biggest school library I have ever seen. It's also new to have a class regularly scheduled in the library," another stated. In the Middle School, they did not keep tabs on you as much as they do here. There was no Attendance Office, almost no one in the hallways during regular periods, and no periods when you could just do what you wanted to. "There also was no weight room," another freshman remarked.

Several freshmen were intrigued, though not surprised, by the upperclassmen's negative reaction to their arrival that first day. Yet, the Class of 1992 is expecting an exciting freshman year. Our student leaders have planned events and fundraisers to keep us busy in our free time. ○ Nathan Gray

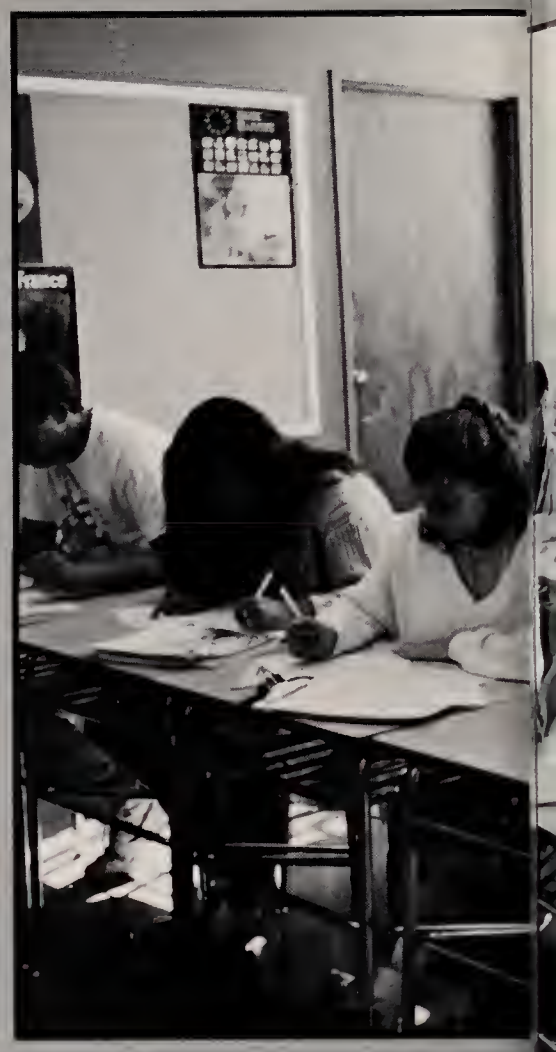
Organize Your Schedule



For the freshmen, getting one's schedule is a thrilling time. These high school rookies diligently fill in their schedules, each kid always proclaiming his or hers the best, despite having just one free period a week and the hardest teachers. Translating the schedule can sometimes be as difficult as translating Swahali. What the heck is PHY 202 BK 21 4 5. Oh!! Of course!!! What else can it mean but Physics, course 202, with Mr. Burke in Room 21 for 4 terms to receive 5 credits. Inevitable, there is the student who, no matter how many times he tried to figure it out, can't make his schedule work out. Then, his homeroom teacher must begrudgingly do it for him. After all the students complete filling in their schedules, they have a whole year to look forward to attending their classes!

Decorate Your Locker

Six Steps To Senior Year

At the beginning of each school year, students are faced with a fun-filled task: locker decorating. This may seem like an easy thing to do, but it definitely isn't. Major decisions must be made, often more perplexing than the most complicated DNA structure problem. For the girls, the questions are endless. Should the picture of Tom Cruise go above or below the poster of Kevin Costner? Should the teddy bears hugging be at the bottom or at the top of the locker? For the boys, the task is just as tough. Does Paulina look better to Christie Brinkley's right or left? Is it better to have the picture of Van Halen or the picture of just Sammy Hagar? These decisions are very important, because using your locker a few thousand times per year, you better make the best of it!!!

GLOBAL STYLE

SPECIAL '88 MINI-MAGAZINE

It's "our style" to be entertained, and we were! Take a look at some of the most notable entertainers of '88. Newest artist of the year, rock star Tracey Chapman had one of the best-selling albums with her debut LP, "Tracey Chapman." And then there was Cher, winning the Academy Award for Best Actress for her role as the superstitious young widow in "Moonstruck." Don Johnson managed to change his image in his new movie, "Sweet Hearts Dance," in which he wields nothing more lethal than a fly rod. Everywhere they're flocking to see teen-aged pop-singer Tiffany. Another hot number was singer George Michael whose debut LP, "Faith," hit the top of the pop, adult, and black charts. Nor should we forget irreverent late-night television host David Letterman, who can be counted on for an unpleasant thing-or-two to say. Rock stars, Bruce Springsteen and Patti Scialfa, his back-up singer, became an "item" in '88. Australian actor, Paul Hogan, hoisted himself up a pole to get a better view of Manhattan's busy streets in a scene from his hit movie, "Crocodile Dundee." It was happy 18th birthday for pop singer Debbie Gibson. "Family Ties" star Michael J. Fox married Tracy Pollan, who played his girlfriend on the hit television show. There she is, Miss America! Miss Minnesota, Gretchen Carlson, was crowned Miss America 1989. The savvy competence and believability of Tom Hanks became certified in 1988 as he starred as a 13-year-old in a 35-year-old's body in "Big;" and again as a stand-up, torn-up comic in "Punchline.".

The summer of 1988 was hit with the worst drought in many years. Throughout the midwest, farmers watched helplessly as their crops went dry.

The Earth Strikes Back . . .

Probably the most significant story of 1988 involved the planet we live on. Too frequently we learned of some kind of natural disaster: a typhoon in the Pacific, a flood in Bangladesh, an earthquake in China. Hurricane Gilbert smashed across the Caribbean, the Yucatan and northern Mexico. Meteorologists called the storm, whose winds hit 175 mph and whose barometric pressure was the lowest ever recorded in the Western Hemisphere, the most intense hurricane in history. A brutal fire, which 10,000 men and women battled for three months, charred 1.38 million acres of Yellowstone before it was finally snuffed out by November's snow. We experienced the hottest, driest summer since the dust bowl. Aided by high winds and heat, the drought devastated America's bread-basket. With grain production down 30 percent from 1987, Midwest farmers lost $15 billion.

There are some ecologists who believe these "natural disasters" are not entirely natural, but rather the consequences of abuse — burning, dumping and polluting in the name of progress — which has caused the earth to unleash furious forces. These same ecologists feel our very survival depends on international legislation as well as a wholesale change in our attitude toward the earth we inhabit.

But we were cheered by the men and women who worked tirelessly around the clock to free two whales from an Alaskan ice pack. It was also the year in which the American space program managed to right itself when Discovery lifted off from its Florida launchpad. All of us hope that Russia and the United States will continue to work toward easing all of their differences. And a tiny new princess named Beatrice won our hearts.

Hurricane Gilbert rose out of the Caribbean in late September. By the time it was over it had killed more than 300 people, left thousands homeless and caused billions of dollars in damage to the Caribbean, Central America, Mexico and the United States.

In an international effort of good will, Russian and American rescuers cut through the ice in Alaska to save two California gray whales who were trapped in the ice for more than three weeks.

The Duke and Duchess of York, the former Sarah Ferguson, and her husband, Prince Andrew, named their new daughter Beatrice Elizabeth Mary.

President Reagan and Soviet Leader Gorbachev continued to work to bring their two countries together, in this the year after they signed a treaty to eliminate certain nuclear weapons.

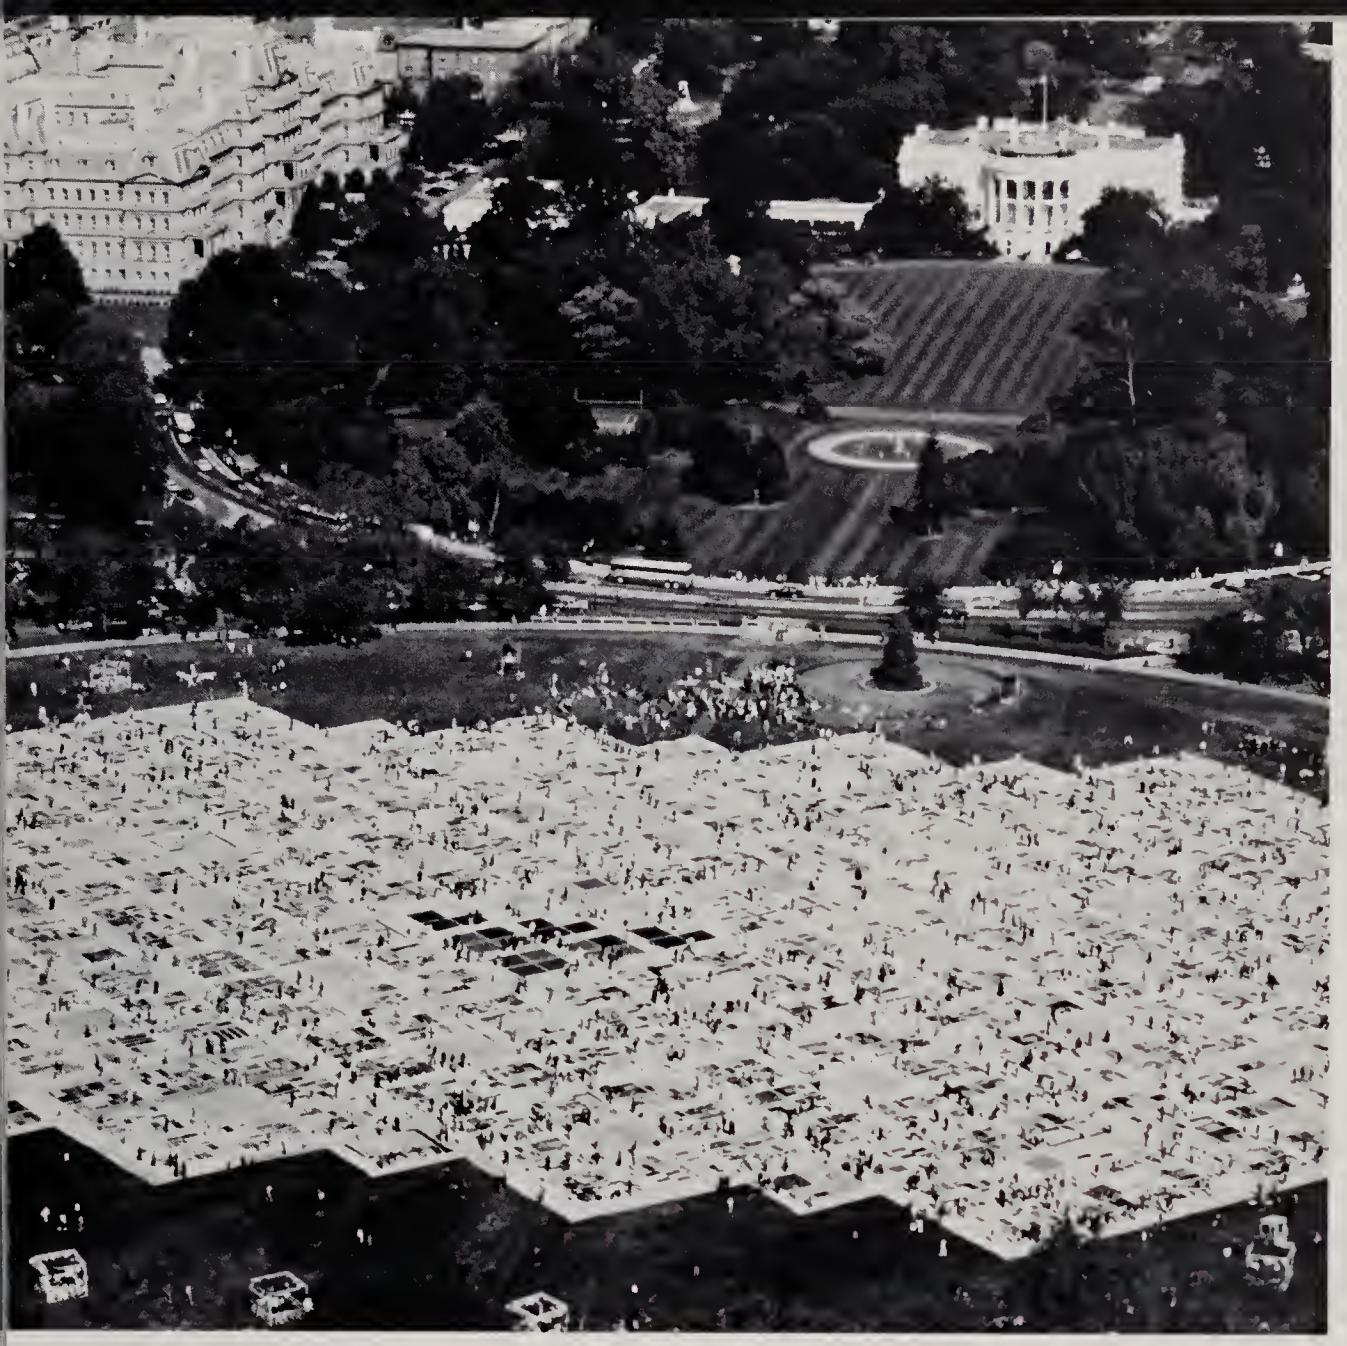
Forest fires spread throughout the western part of the country during the summer, destroying millions of acres of national park land. Worst hit was Yellowstone National Park.

The shuttle Discovery blasted into orbit in September, and ended its successful four-day, 1.6 million-mile mission with a triumphant landing at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

The stormy marriage of boxer Mike Tyson and Robin Givens had lasted less than a year, when 23 year-old actress Givens filed for divorce. Accused of marrying 22 year-old "Iron Mike" for his money, Robin said she wouldn't take a dime. She's since changed her mind and is suing Mike for millions.

The Democrats decided on Michael Dukakis, the governor of Massachusetts, as their candidate for President. He picked Lloyd Bentsen, senator from Texas, as his running mate. Their bid was unsuccessful.

The California Raisins strut their stuff to the song "I Heard It Through The Grapevine."



Thousands of people who had died of AIDS were memorialized in October in ceremonies centered on a huge quilt made by friends and families of the victims. Each of the panels measured three by six feet; all fifty states and a dozen foreign countries were represented in the 375,000 square foot quilt.

Heroes Are Our Style . . .

Pessimists called this a "Year Without Heroes." They pointed to such things as a lack-lustre presidential campaign, the Olympic steroid-scandal that cost Canadian sprinter Ben Johnson a gold medal; and the marital troubles of boxing champion Mike Tyson.

But there were plenty of things and people to admire. We've already noted the saving of the whales; and should never forget the outpouring of aid and concern for earthquake victims in Armenia. Who was not moved by the memorial to the thousands of AIDS victims — a huge quilt made by friends and family members of the victims? We said goodbye to the eight-year tenure of President Ronald Reagan and prepared for a new administration headed by George Bush.

We also demonstrated our capacity to move forward. Our space program, which was nearly finished with the tragic explosion of the Challenger in 1986, soared ahead when the space shuttle Discovery, equipped with more than 400 design changes, was successfully launched.

Yes there were heroes among us! Credit must be given to the pilot who successfully landed Aloha Airline 737, which was missing a huge chunk of its roof. Nor should we forget Jesse Jackson. Though his bid for the Presidency fell short, Jesse has changed the American political landscape forever. As he stated, "We have lifted the ceiling off the dreams." Surely we cannot leave this year without congratulating our Olympic gold medalists Janet Evans, Florence Joyner, Greg Lougainis, Carl Lewis and Matt Biondi. You can see them pictured at the end of the sports section. And, on a lighter note, we loved the California Raisins who caught the interest of raisin lovers and others in a television commercial for the California Raisin Growers.

Vice-President George Bush, after serving eight years in the Reagan administration, got the expected nod at the Republican National Convention. His choice for running mate was unexpected — Senator Dan Quayle of Indiana. Opinion polls showed that the inexperienced 41 year-old Quayle was not a popular choice. Never-the-less, Bush and Quayle won the election resoundingly and were inaugurated in January, 1989.

Yearbooks Are Our Business

Yearbook, it's our business. WE are in some way a mini-publisher. Our product is a little larger than a magazine and somewhat shorter than a novel. We write articles, crop pictures, and draw layouts. To any ordinary non-yearbook kid, it looks like we are destroying and defacing pictures, and doodling on a big blue sheet of paper. When, in fact, we are designing the yearbook.

From the first glance at the cover straight through to the last endsheet, this year's book is not quite so traditional, and some may even consider it radical. Many changes were implemented resulting in smaller senior portraits, a baby picture of nearly every senior, and more color! At the beginning of the year the seniors were planning a revolt, but now as you look through the book we hope it pleases you and that you get great enjoyment out of it. We certainly had fun creating it!

Global Perspectives Maelstrom News & Views

Here at Weston High, we are fortunate to have three respectable outlets for student writing and editing. These three activities enable students to dabble with their writing styles in their primary or even foreign tongue.

The most dramatic work of the year has been News and Views. Thanks to new wave equipment, the newspaper now has the capabilities for creating a professional publication.

Weston High's annual literary magazine, Maelstrom, is published in the spring, and is a collection of student artwork and writing done throughout the year.

The Foreign Language Dept. is riding the wave of technology with their video equipment and language lab, as well as their newspaper Global Perspectives.

All of these groups meet weekly or monthly and provide a good way for kids to meet new students, practice new skills, and enhance their creative style.

"Little Shop of Horrors"

The demonic spirit of Halloween seemed to linger this fall when the Theatre Company produced their musical offering of the year, Little Shop of Horrors. Long hours and plenty of stress were involved in transforming Weston High's beautiful (?) auditorium into a grungy, Skid Row flower shop. The musical was based on Roger Corman's cultish B-movie of the same name. Plotwise, the story centered around bumbling botanist Seymour Krelborn, his put-upon girlfriend Audrey, and a man-eating plant that threatened to eat Cleveland and then some.

Under Mr. Minnigan and Mrs. Taggart's direction were Adam Dugas as the awkward wimp Seymour and Leah Wheelock as beautiful, insecure Audrey. Thomas Caruso was the struggling flower shop owner, Mr. Mushnik; and David Fleming, Dr. Orin Scrivello, Audrey's sadistic dentist boyfriend. Darlene DiBona, Amy Oelgeschlager, and Kashawn Green played Ronette, Chiffon and Crystal. The girls acted as a street-smart "Greek chorus" underscoring the play with their songs. Cameo appearances were made by Typhaine Bertrand, Bennett Shamsai, Jim Ryan, Josie (Number 10) Dickson, and Amy Vezza. But the star of the show was Audrey II, the vegetable vampire. Elliot Davis and Alexandra Richmond controlled the puppet bodies and Howard Simpson was the eerie voice of Audrey!

Cheerleaders Marching Band Majorettes

"Beat 'em, bust 'em, that's our custom — Go Weston!" The Cheerleaders bring spirit to our games. What would a football game be without them?

Big brass trombones, flutes, and shiny instruments of all shapes and sizes! The Marching Band provides pageantry and tunes which get both the team and the spectators into the spirit of the game.

Tasseled silver wands thrown high into the air! The Majorettes whirl and twirl to help entertain the team and the crowd.

The cheerleaders, the marching band, and the majorettes all help inspire our teams on to victory.

Orchestra Jazz Ensemble Mixed Chorus

To sing, play and groove. We got it all right here at Weston High. The Orchestra, Jazz Ensemble and the District Music singers.

With both of the famed Choi sisters on the orchestra this year, the orchestra reached their zenith. Many of the members were awarded excellent seats at the Senior District Music Festival, and our winter concert was taped by local cable.

The Jazz Ensemble grooved, yet they did not make their entrance to the Winter Concert with their customary dark glasses routine. Never-the-less their popular renditions, had mothers and fathers whistling and stomping their feet.

So whether it's an opera singer, a concertists or just playing those funky old blues, you can do all that at the Weston High Music Room.

SADD Black Student Union Serves

Students become aware of prevalent issues in our society — drunk driving and racial issues. Sadd associates itself with warning students of the problems and dangers with driving drunk. They culminated this awareness through a school-wide red-ribbon campaign. Ribbons were distributed to all juniors and seniors, which they place somewhere on their vehicle.

The Black Student Union is an organization of camaraderie for the Metco students. They have executives and attend weekly conference period meetings. Recently, they put on a dance and lip sync contest.

Holding dances, jamming to tunes, or tying bows on your car, it is all a part of becoming aware of things in life that affect us daily.

Community Service Bridges Peer Counseling

Kids helping people. That's the theme of the three groups Peer Counseling, Bridges, and Community Service. Each one has a different focus but they all rely on the participation of the students.

The Bridges program is the oldest of the three, and its purpose is to form connections between Metco and Weston students. Similarly, the Peer Counseling program tries to "bridge" the gap between high school and middle schools students. Kids learn listening skills and alcohol and drug info to inform the eighth graders.

Community Service encompasses many forms of service, ranging from helping at nursery school to working at the Campion Center. It is encouraging that each year, new volunteer programs are being created so that students get involved in their community.

One-to-One Student Government Day Alternate Studies

One-to-One, Student Government Day and Alternate Studies all have one thing in common — students can do them during school hours and get credit.

In the One-to-One program kids spend the day with people in different career positions. You could go with a police officer or a doctor. Alternate Studies, on the other hand, is a system where forms of study are created by the student and count for credit toward graduation.

Student Government Day gave Leo Hwang the opportunity to sit in session with congressional members and make laws with them. All three of these study programs enable students to go beyond the classroom and experience "real" life for a day.

Weston's Fun Athletics

Some of Weston's most successful teams are its least visible ones; ski club, water polo, cycling club, and triathalon.

The waterpolo team, off until spring season, will be returning from their semi-finalist finish last season. Their swimsuit calendar is on the drawing board.

The ski team is enjoying its first competitive season, despite the lack of snow, fan apathy, and "apres-ski" of long cold bus rides in rush-hour traffic.

The cycling club is gearing up for the spring. Training and touring rides are open to all, while the more competitive plan to race in local time trials.

S keep the pace with ports

Much attention is paid to academics at Weston High, but to the students, sports are just as, if not more, important than academics. This dedication and hard work involved with sports really shine through as the school gets smaller and smaller. On days of a big game, students push school and tests to the back of their minds, and concentrate on what they see as being of primary importance, the big game. Many athletes make their games into a big deal by wearing funny hats or spraying their hair purple with pink polka-dots, some drive in front of school, honking horns and cheering. It doesn't matter to these athletes that school spirit is lacking. Spirit for their own teams runs high, and when it comes down to the actual game, that is the spirit which counts. Fall, winter or spring sport, we gotcha covered.

VICTORY

"Never say die, with fire in our eyes," was a quote often used by the girls' Field Hockey team. From the start, our new coach, Pauline Collins, led the team with enthusiasm, pride, confidence and determination, which eventually led to victories.

Leading the team both with experience and enthusiasm were the captains Sue Delduchetto and Laura Davies. All of our seniors greatly contributed to the success of the team and our being together will surely be missed.

One of the highlights of our season was our rematch with Acton Boxboro. Our goal was to walk away with a victory, but a tie made us feel strong and proud. We were a strong team both on and off the field. Painting our faces, coloring our hair, early morning breakfasts, running through the halls, trips to Papa's and a late night dinner at the Delduchetto's was a factor in getting us going, psyching us up for each game. All of these things prepared us for our last and greatest challenge of the season — the Division-One-North-Championship game, against Danvers (the number one seed). We lost after three overtimes and a stoke off. The most important aspect of the whole season was that we hung on tight, found pride in our strength and "Dreamed of being the best!" Thank you Coach Collins, we will always look back on these great memories and smile.

The Weston High School Football Team has long been viewed as a conglomeration of "poor little" rich kids. Any success achieved was written off as the accomplishment of one or two outstanding players, rather than the team. The 1988 Wildcats delivered a different message.

By season's end, Weston's gallant gladiators of the gridiron had battled to a 4 and 5 record. On paper win/loss percentage, that will certainly not open many eyes. The final scores are only half of the story. Asked anyone who watched a game this fall they will tell you who really received a beating in Weston's 5 losses. Coach DiBiaso's Wildcats can no longer be regarded as maroon and gray punching bags. Weston hit first, and hit hard.

Under the guidance of an able and enthusiastic coaching staff, comprised of Head Coach John DiBiaso and coaches Dave Baldanza, Tony Gulla, Jim Porrel and Mark Driscoll, the '88 Wildcats were able to thrive. A strong nucleus of seniors led by co-captains Adam Perrin and Brian Munson, provided the driving force for this year's team. With Dane Fletcher's legs, Dan Cail's stomach, Tom Norton's hands and Bill Callahan's arm, Weston had an offense that was tough to contend with. No offense is complete without a bastion of brutes, and this year's line was anchored by Leo Hwang and Doug Mosher. The Wildcats also had a secret weapon from the "great white north." Mark Lucas was a "secret" because no one in their right mind would believe that a Canadian was good at football. Spiritual support was provided by Ted Moynahan and Darnell Toomer. They were both sidelined by injuries early in the season, but their desire to play and will to win fed the rest of the team.

Without the contributions of the underclassmen, the likes of Adam Alexander, Carl Swanson and Roman Savino, this year's seniors would have been for not. With numerous strong players in the junior, sophomore, and freshmen classes Weston can look forward to some good football in the fall of '89.

The 1988 Boys' Cross Country team, lead by the dynamic Rob "Boom-Boom" Fortune and Grover "Humma" Heintz, distinguished itself by going undefeated in the Dual County League, winning the All League Meet with the lowest score in DCL history, winning the prestigious Middlesex News Meet, placing 11th at the State meet, and winning the coveted Mahon Cup.

The Girls' team, led by fillies Anne Donnelly and Dana Hanson, led the small and injury prone team to qualify for the state meet for the first time ever. Another team highlight was making a rebellious appearance at the Thanksgiving Day Pep Rally.

But behind the glittery Town Crier coverage and lavish Mahon awards banquet, there was a special feel, a unique bond shared by the runners and their coaches. That sense of respect and friendship is what made the team truly outstanding.

The 1988 Weston High School Soccer Team, under the guidance of first year coach, Mark Schaffer, a former Weston Soccer star in his own right, finished the season with a respectable 8-9-1 record. With much of the talent gone from previous seasons, the squad began the season with three tough losses to rivals, L-S, Wayland and A-B, with the success of this years season in question. However, after a gusty win over a previously unbeaten Bedford team, the team regrouped, winning five of their next seven games. The highlight of the season was the 1-0 nail-bitting win over A-B, under the lights on their home turf.

The team was sparked throughout the season by co-captains Mike Chin and Juno Min. Seniors Jason Kondi, Adam Benjamin, Geoff Hablow, David Kohn and Vernon Belden all contributed. With the junior starters Charles Fraser, Paul Pakenham Walsh, John Floyd and Eric Roiter returning next year, in addition to several promising sophomores, the team hopes to continue the Weston Soccer tradition. Oh what a season it was for the Girls' Soccer team. It was a good one. Although we missed placement in the tournament, by a mere point, all of our hard work and dedication definitely paid off. What ever we did, we did it "together." This motto of togetherness has been around for many years, and one that has been derived from a winning tradition of previous state championship titles. We were so close, yet you might say just a ways off. We would play amazing against the tougher teams, and take for granted the easier ones. Though we realize this now, we also know that our numerous dinners, psyche tapes, speeches, cheers, "moments of silence," sliders, dives, Sunday practices, 7-ups, full fields, pacts were not done in vain. We are friends on and off the field. Although we didn't win any type of title, we achieved a greater goal, we improved our overall season record and we had a damn good time.

The Weston High School Basketball team had a disappointing season and failed to qualify for the state tournament for the first time in many years. Despite the up-and-downs, the season had many high points, such as winning the Watertown Tournament and defeating the Tri-Valley forces of Medway and Dover Sherborn.

The team relied on a balanced attack led by co-captains Dan Cail and Tom Norton, the inside play of Bill Callahan and Al "The Laboratory" Sayegh, as well as the three-point shooting of Terry London. The depth of the team lay in the able hands of fellow seniors Geoff Hablow and 6'8½" power forward Greg Kaden. Although a tournament berth was not in the cards this year, the hopes of a state title next season are high with returning stars "Golden" Gerstein, Sean "steroids" Becker, "D.J. SCORE

The girls' basketball team did an impossible thing, we had a season with a win. Not only one win, but seven. That's amazing considering that last season the team went 0-17.

One can only speculate why this happened. Was it senior Elaine Kakridas' return from a years leave of absence? The new coach Pauline Collins amazing game plan? The leadership provided by co-captains Cindy Mallett and Suzanne Condakes?

The success this year was abundant compared with last year's record. Yet, the win over Wayland, the second time, was sweetest at home win, 47-35. Out of all the contests, the most trying was against Boston Latin. They had a girl who could dunk!! A girl dunking!!! We didn't even have two substitutes on our team, and they had a girl who could dunk. Despite the size barrier we played hard.

We finished the season with a sense of accomplishment and pride. With the help of our coach, and the commitment from each individual player, we knew we were champions in our own right.

HAT TRICK

On the whole, our season was fun led, of course, by our coach, Jim Gunn

We made mistakes which coach would explain, and then we denied all of the blame.

Coach would teach us his system of hockey and when we won we knew we weren't just lucky.

Powers was there, he helped out a lot,
and he was always prepared with the shot.

Out on the ice, Coach Powers thought he was bionic but we knew he had been drinking his gin and tonic.

Our season saw a lot of injuries,
but knowing Miss LePore was there put us at ease.

Benny carved his own notch,
when he took a slap shot in the crotch.

Hamiliton, Riis, Thielscher all saw black and blue
While half our team was home sick with the flu.

In practice we skated by lines,
so during the game coach could give us signs.

It was Catch, Hibby, and Hamilton on red sometimes we thought they were sick in the head.

Cacciatore played with aggressiveness; no sleeper
That's our boy, Kenny Catch, the Grim Reaper.

The blue line; McGraw, Alexander, and Doyle, powers that were latent and at the CC game, Mark was possessed by Satan.

The Killer B's consisted of Benny, Bogie and Bassett
OOOhhh, what an asset!

But seriously, they gave 100%, they gave it their all,
without their hard work, the team would fall.

Tyler and Ian also showed clout,
Two newcomers who really helped out.

Woodie and Weis were our goalies, Coach called them duffel bags, but by their play they showed they weren't hags.

Woodie played inspired hockey all year,
facing shot after shot without fear.

He built a reputation that no one could marr.
That's why he's our DCL all-star.

Weis also played good hockey; many great saves he made,
but we were at a loss when he didn't make the grade.

The first 3 games were lost one to zero,
Woodward kept us in the games; he was our hero.

Vs. Wellesley we couldn't get around Lucarelli who had obviously spent some time at the local deli.

To our confidence, our first few games were detrimental but we knew that we had not yet reached our potential.

Our first victory came on our home ice,
it was against Wayland it was so nice.

Chin scored the first goal, faking the Wayland D out of his pants, and then went into his victory dance.

But Hamilton was MVP for the day, scoring the next two goals to put the game away.

Next we lost tough games against AB, CC, and LS
When we didn't play aggressive, the score was a mess.

Again we faced tough games vs. Bo Latin, AB, LS, and CC, and whenever we wanted a penalty we sent out Slashatorie.

Our next game was against Bedford, we wondered how we'd fare,
Adam was whining that he had forgotten his long underwear.

But not to worry, the situation was not dire, because Chinner scored a hat trick; he was on fire.

Out last game against Stoughton was disappointing, no whirl, except when Catch and Hamilton cross checked the girl.

So overall our record was 3-15-2.

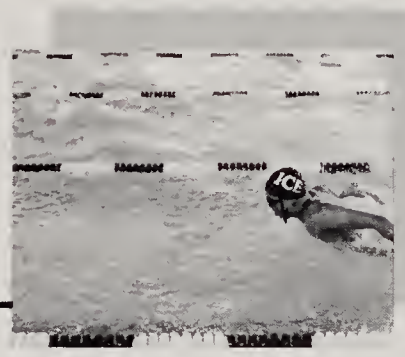
"ICE . . . Make it happen. Involvement, Commitment, and Excellence. These three words enabled us (Red Tide) to capture the state co-ed championships." — Gregg Cosimi

medley, IM dive for POINTS



"ICE ... Make It Happen." More than once you have probably seen this euphorism displayed by swimmers, divers, and coaches alike, enabled the Red Tide to close its season with a 15-1 record, and a decisive victory in the state co-ed finals. Coaches Pete Foley, Claude Valle, Jay Mahoney, Jim Kelly, and Scott Gordon, along with captains Susan Delduchetto, Heather Leisman, Gregg Cosimi and David Kohn, provided a large & highly spirited emotional base for the team.

Senior All Scholastic David "Spike" Kohn took charge of the pool from the start of the season, contributing to three new school records. Placing first in the states, David shattered his own backstroke record, tied Andy Robbins 50 Freestle record, and along with Junior Vijay Lathi and Sophomores Owen Bittinger and Alex Fraser, snapped the 400 Freestyle relay record. Vijay Lathi also broke the 100 Freestyle relay record while Sophomore Hilary Hanson set a new girl record in the 100 backstroke.

A strong freshmen clan played an important role in the Red Tide's winning season. Brad Whitridge set a new freshman diving record while classmates Payson Corbiere, Mike Foley, Jon Zapf and Jeb Gutelius broke the Freshmen 400 Freestyle Relay record.

But to speak only of records and the teams performance would be selling the Tide short. A special sense of camaraderie and support was developed between swimmers, divers and coaches of the '89 Tide. It was this spirit, along with an overwhelming sense of dedication, which carried the Tide through a winning, as well as an enjoyable season. ICE ... we made it happen.

get control of the head to get a PIN

A team derives its power from the strength of its individuals. Conversely, each individual relies on the team for support. The success of the 88-89 wrestling season stems directly from dedication and team spirit. Like any fine tuned machine, if any component is not functioning the whole system fails. When separated from the team no one wrestler is outstanding, but when united a record of 16-5 tells the story.

Under the tutelage of Coach Dave Baldanza and Kevin Thomas, along with the guidance of tri-captains, Doug Mosher, Leo Hwang, and Adam Perrin, this season's team achieved vast success. There were six seniors on this year's roster of 45. Three of them were captains. The other half provided vital victories in their weight classes.

Good leadership means nothing when there is no one to lead. Of the thirteen varsity positions, eight of them were filled by juniors. These grapplers were supported by numerous underclassmen, thus completing the ingredients for a strong team.

Through hard work and dedication, Coach Baldanza molded yet another group of young men into a wrestling force — the Brotherhood-of-the-Mat.

hurtle, sprint dash to the FINISH

The 1988-89 boys' winter track team capped off a strong dual meet season with fine performances in state-level meets. The team finished 6-1 in the DCL, with the only loss a one-point setback to Acton Boxboro. The team avenged that loss, however, with a solid victory in the DCL All-League Meet — the first win by the Weston boys since 1980. On the state level, the team placed second out of 35 teams in the Class C Relays and third out of 48 teams in the Class D State Championship. School records were set by Rob Fortune in both the one mile and the 1000 yards, Dane Fletcher in the 300 yards, and the mile relay team of Natty Harrison, Malcolm Nathan, Fortune, and Fletcher. Rob Fortune also won both Class and League Championships in the 1000, and other League Championships were won by Fletcher (330), James Craig (1 mile), and the mile relay. Grover Heintz, Paul Connolly, Juno Min, Malcolm Nathan, Jon Fishburn, and Natty Harrison was particularly impressive in setting a record in the 300 in the State-wide Auerbach Freshman-Sophomore Meet, as well as placing fourth in the 300 in the Class D meet. The future of the team looks promising as another strong freshmen class appeared on the scene — Rurik Vandevenne provided the Freshman highlight by setting a new freshman record in the 300.

RIBBON

The girls' winter track team began as a small, inexperienced group, with six seniors and no juniors on a total roster of only 20 girls. It ended the season with a fourth place finish (out of 52 schools) in the Class C State Championships. Credit for this success must go to the rapid improvement of the younger athletes, particularly the freshmen, and the strong leadership and guidance shown by the senior captains: Dana Hanson, Laura Davies and Catherine Van Dusen. The team finished with a 6-3 Dual meet record, placed second in the DCL All-League Meet, and fourth in Class C of the state. Dana Hanson won the DCL Title at one mile and the Class C Title at 1000 yards. Laura Davies won the DCL Championship at 1000 yards, and freshman Tammy Peeples won DCL Titles at both 40 yards and in the high jump. Peeples is only the third athlete ever to win two events in the DCL Girls' League Meet. Last being Weston's Julie Muccini in 1985. Tammy capped her sensational season with a second place finish in the Class C Meet in the High Jump and a third place finish in the State Championship High Jump. Her classmate, Michelle Birgeneau ran consistently well in the 300 and 400, setting a freshman record in the 300. Other strong performances came from sophomores Kate Rossiter, Jessica Bain, Heather Spangler, Kelli Murphy, Anisha Sandhu, and Kathy Galligan, as well as freshmen Julie Coris, Helen Kung, and Dorsey Heine. With the rapid improvement of these young athletes, the team looks forward to a strong future.

VARSITY TRACK: L. Davies, D. Hanson, C. Van Dusen, J. Raynovich. ROW 2: K. Rossiter, H. Kung, T. Peeples, M. Fronk, M. Birgeneau, A. Odashima, K. Murphy, A. Sandhu, J. Bain, K. Galligan, J. Coris, A. Niedringhaus, D. Heine, H. Spangler, L. Berkovits.

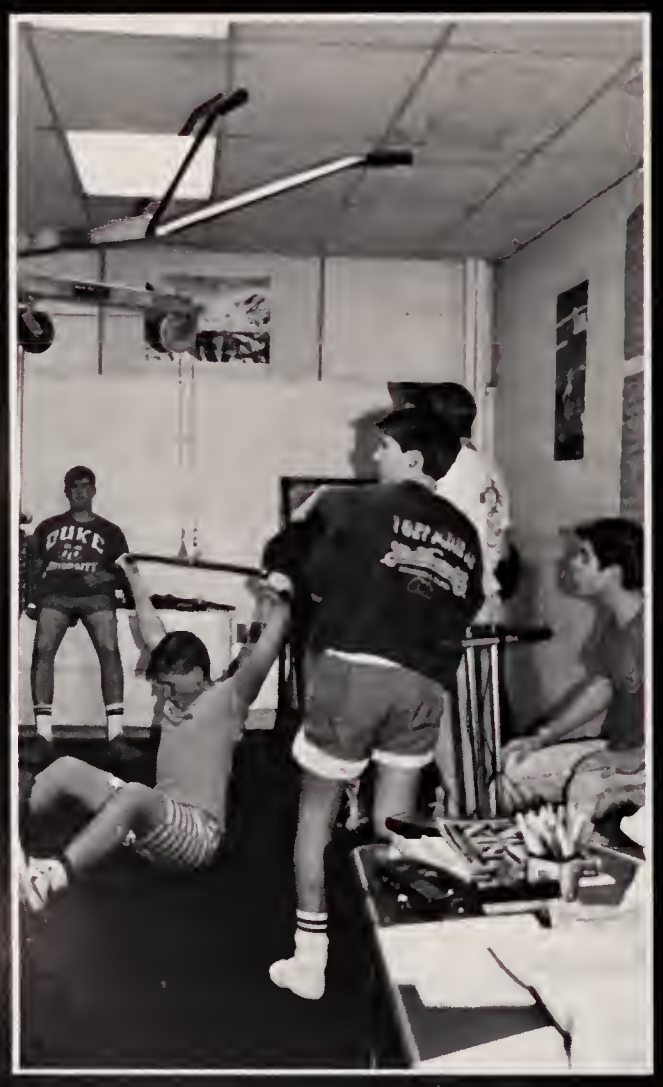
With good form and great stride, veteran Catherine Van Dusen shows a young Weston racer how to hurdle.

We did it in

"Style"

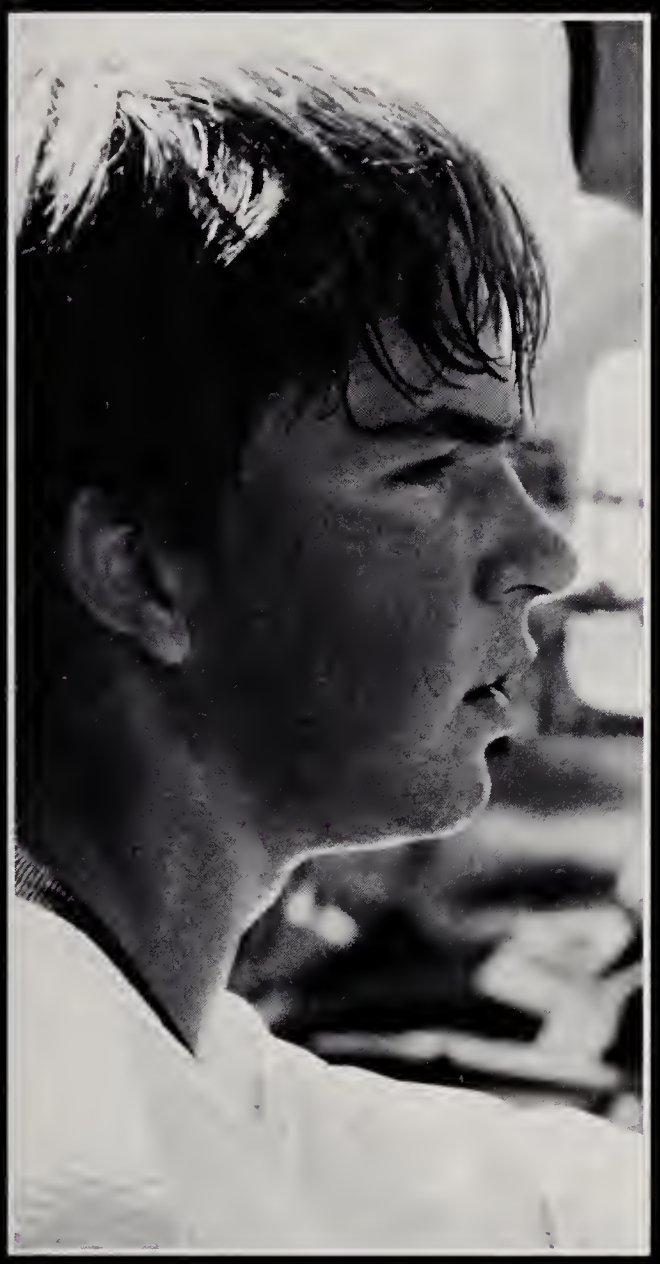
If we did a good job with these four pages, by now you will be puzzled and wondering why the closing is at the end of the sports section instead of at the end of the book. Reason? We sold too many ads.

This year we attempted to define Weston styles. Whether its what you eat, or drive, or who your friends are — its stylish and you DO IT IN STYLE. We hope that we have "done it" and captured all the styles. Yet, no matter what, we DID IT IN STYLE!!!!!!!!

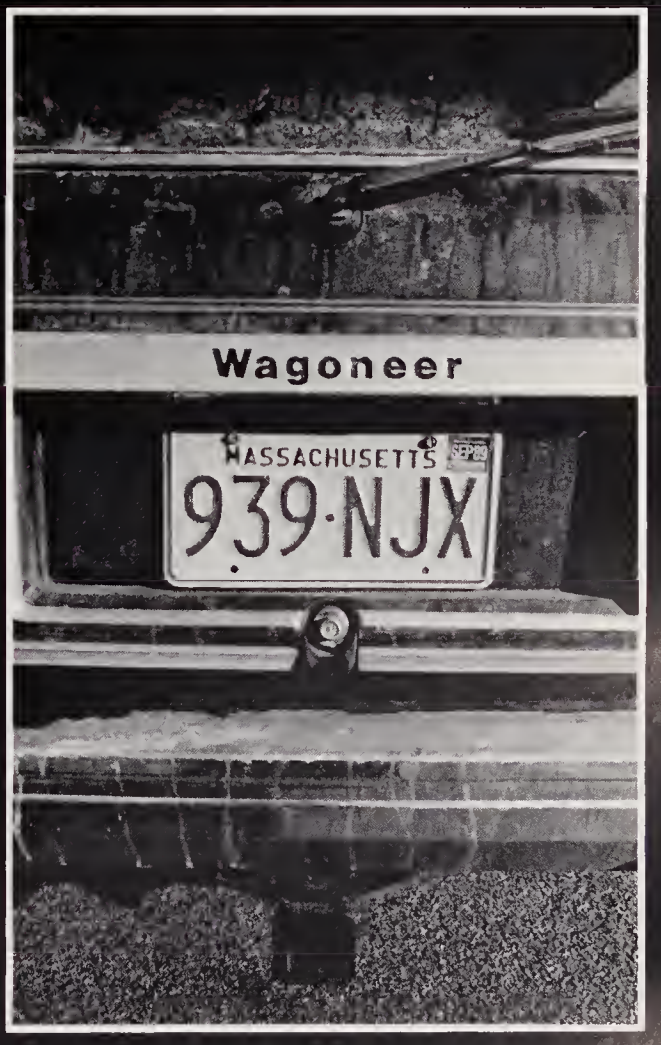


The men of the weight room flex their muscles and prove that being brawny is "in" at Weston High.

Showing true class spirit, Junior Geoff Goldberg bears the burden of the class' holiday fruit sale.



LEFT: Sweat, grime and dirt. Athletic bi-products. Whether you play soccer, baseball, wrestle or run, every athlete does it. You may think it is gross, but it is proven to be a common part of every athlete's routine, and that makes it stylish. BELOW: Cowhide. Weston students are a tanner's best friend (and customer). Leather makes a statement, as well as covering a multitude of backs, it says, "cool, stylish and in."



ABOVE: Walking through the student parking lot or perusing the Registration book in the Attendance Office, there are 30-50 student owned jeeps (of various makes). JEEPS ARE IT! LEFT: If you thought jeans with holes were useless, you're wrong. Give your beat up Levi's to a high school student and they will wear them, and even look smashing!

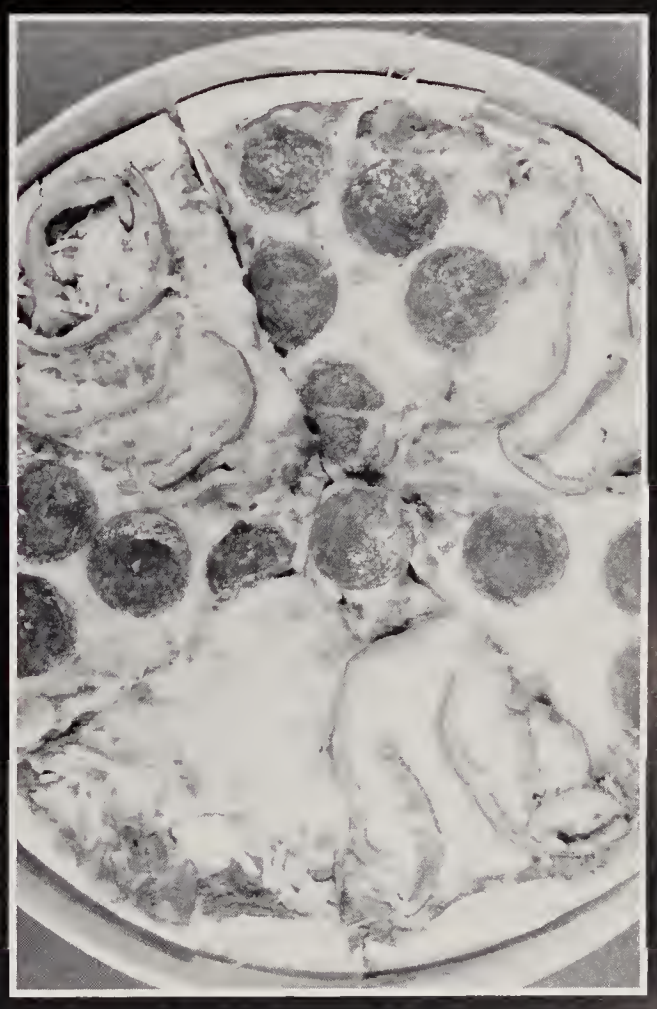
ABOVE: There is an old adage, they say friends look alike. These three sophomores make no exceptions. Lauren Khalil, Amy Thibault and Kim Greene fashion apparel and accessories that are often seen at Weston High School. RIGHT; Setting their own style, throughout the winter many wrestlers were "seen" with their heads shrouded by their numerous style sweatshirts.

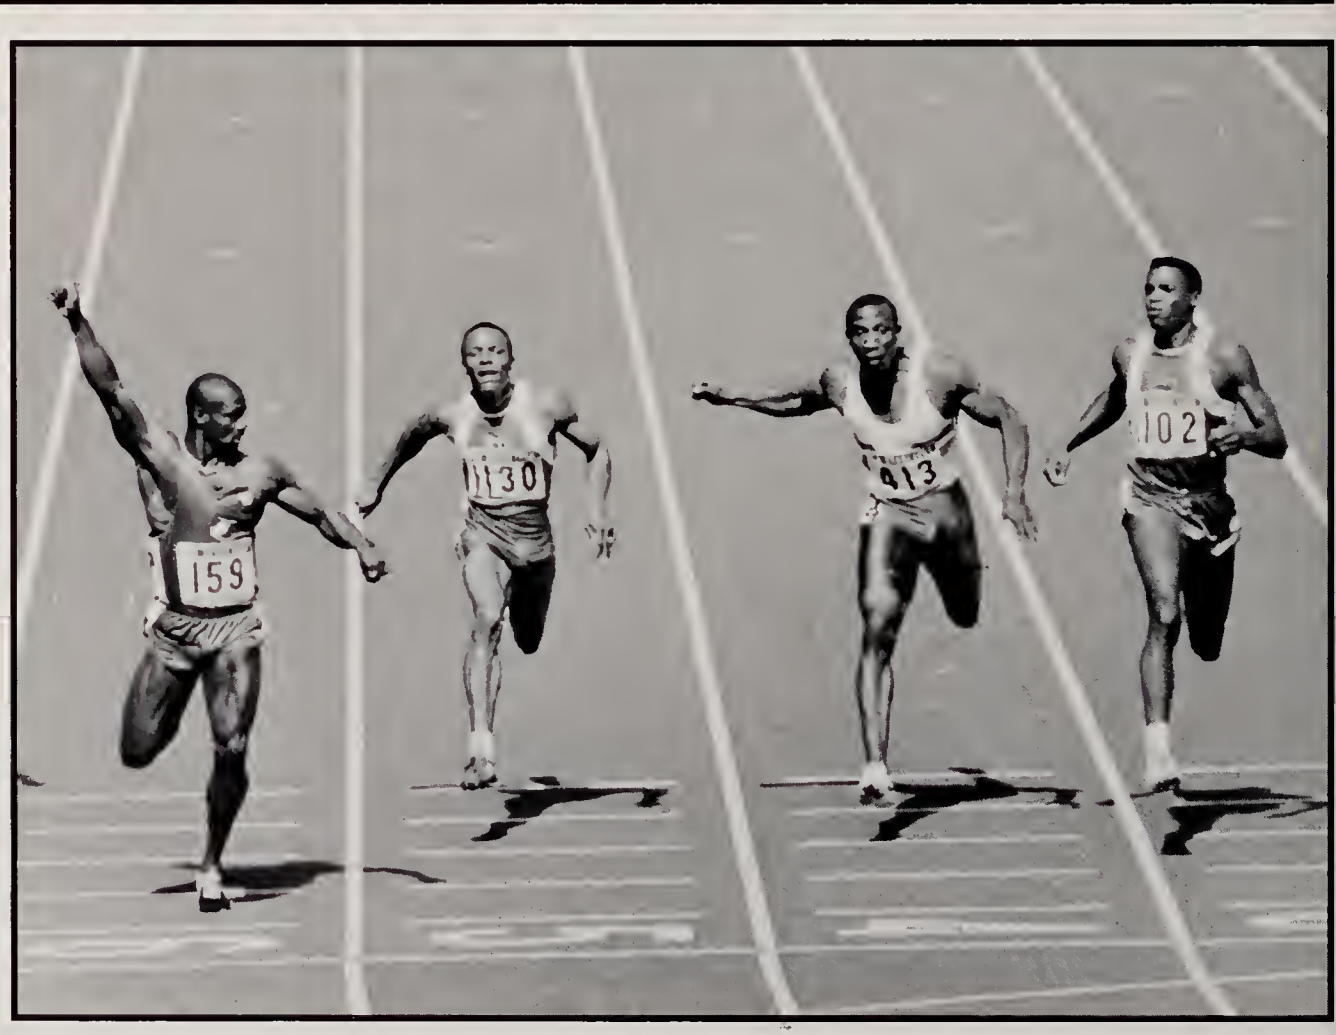
Families that go to school together, stay together. Michelle Bailey and her younger brother display the family and sibling relationships that are alive and well at Weston High School.

Activities tell a lot about the individual student. Karen Boucher shows us her creativity through her photos.

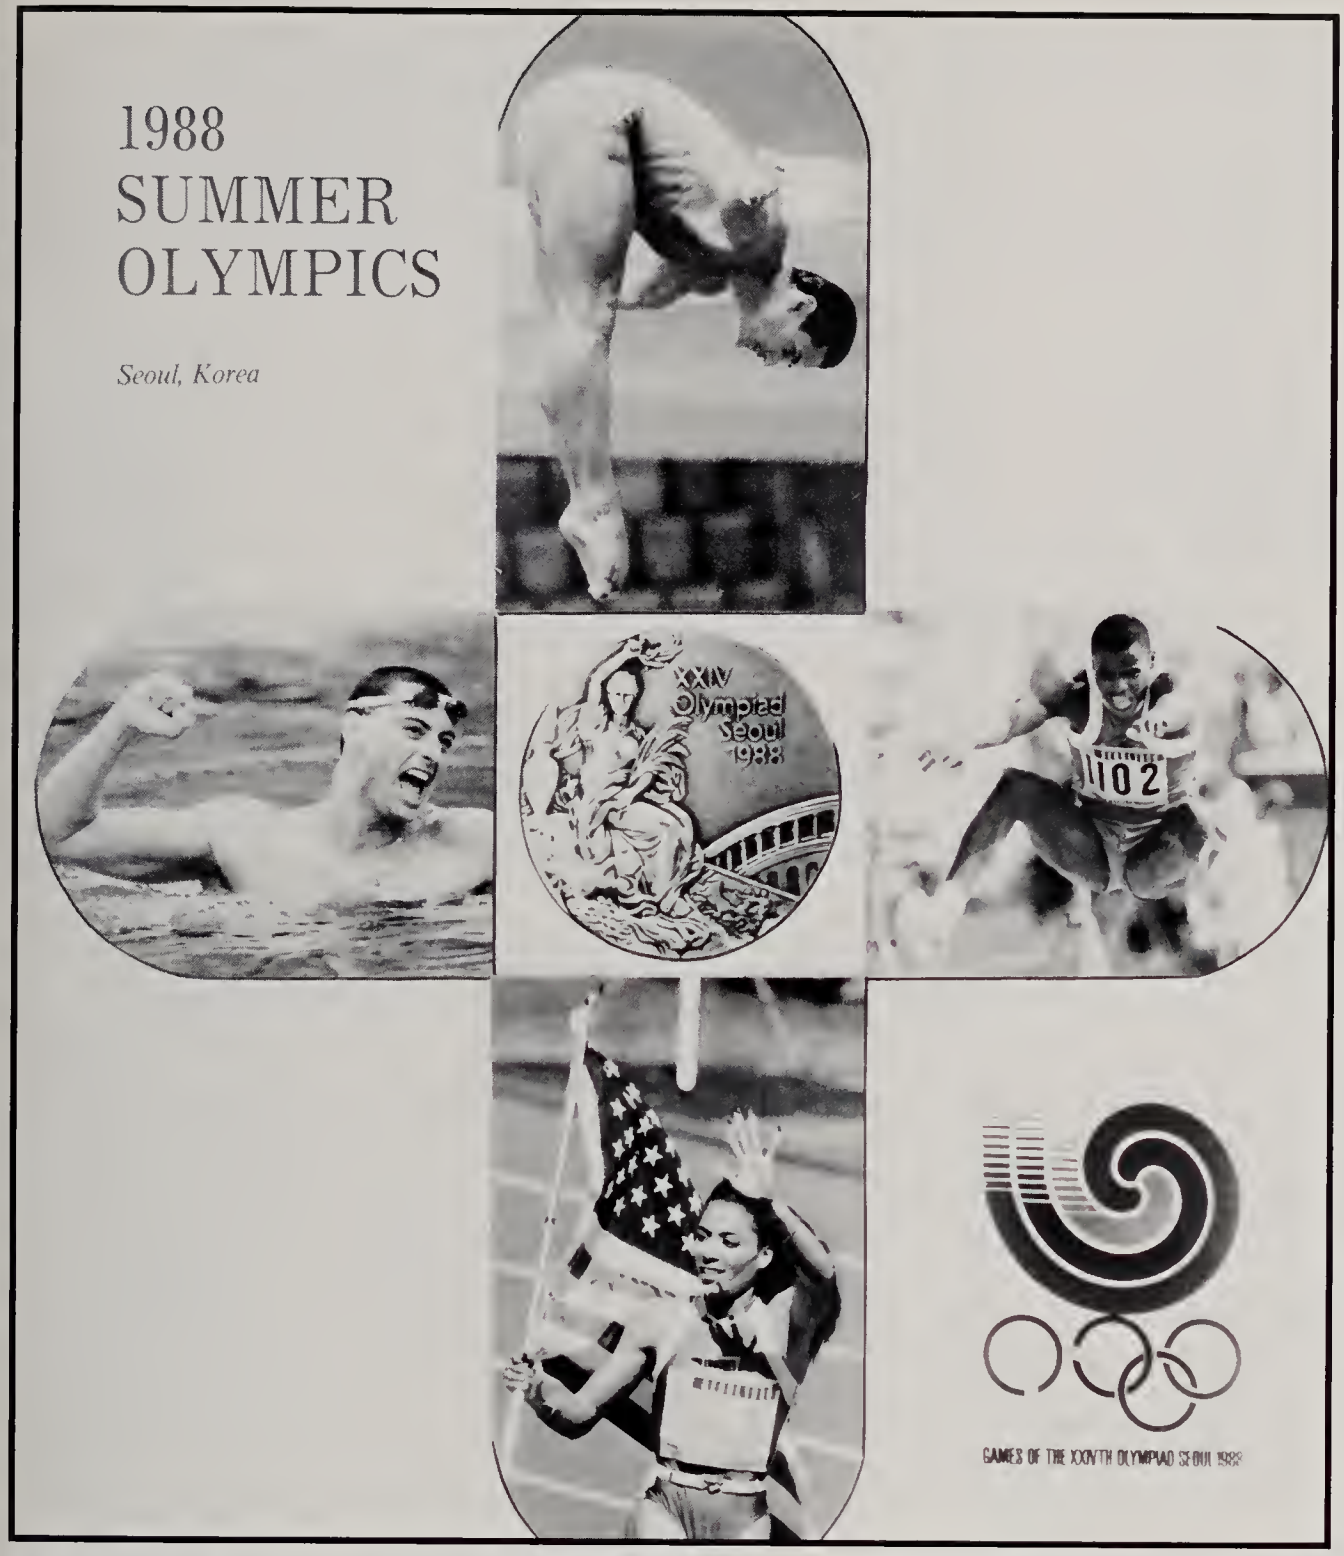


We are all human, we need food to survive. Weston High students survive on junk food and junk food alone. More than one senior, junior, sophomore and freshman have been known to indulge in Papa Gino's speciality, pizza.

Olympic swimmer Janet Evans won three gold medals at the Summer Olympics. The 17-year-old senior from Placentia, California, set a world record in the 400 meter freestyle.



Canadian Ben Johnson, left, looks over at arch-rival Carl Lewis at the finish of the 100-meter race in the Summer Olympics. Johnson won the gold medal but was later disqualified after traces of an anabolic steriod were found in his system.



FAR LEFT. The 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul, South Korea, opened with a dramatic and dazzling ceremony. A colorful, three-hour spectacle mixing ancient Korean rituals with space-age technology kicked off 16 days of athletic competition. LEFT. The stars of the Summer Olympics, clockwise from top: diver Greg Louganis won 2 medals; track and field star Carl Lewis won 2 gold and 1 silver; Florence Griffith Joyner won 3 gold and 1 silver; and swimmer Matt Biondi celebrated with 5 gold, 1 silver and 1 bronze.

Winners Are Our Style

There is little doubt that 1988 was a great year in sports. For one thing, it was the year of the Olympics.

We watched the winter Olympics in Calgary, Canada, where Germany's Ice Queen Katarina Witt stole a gold from our own Debbie Thomas; where American figure-skater Brian Boitano and speed-skater Bonnie Blair won gold medals; as did the Soviet hockey team. In total, the Soviets won 29 medals, the United States a disappointing six.

The summer Olympics in Seoul, South Korea proved to be more successful for our United States' athletes. Swimmers Matt Biondi and Janet Evans were the heart of aquatic Seoul for the US with Janet capturing three golds while trimming 1.6 seconds from her world record. Greg Louganis banged his head against the springboard and had to have five stitches, but came back to win another gold — for a total of two. Florence Griffith Joyner hit the track scene like fireworks, wining three races to become the sensation for the Olympic Games. Jackie Joyner Kersee set a record in the heptathlon and also the long jump.

There were other sporting events that created a stir. Doug Williams, the Super Bowl's first black starting quarterback, led the Redskins to a 42-10 rout of the Broncos. The World Series of baseball belonged to the Los Angeles Dodgers who defeated the Oakland A's in the fifth game of the series.

Ads are what pay for our Yearbook. We have short ads, small ads, big ads, personal ads and business ads. The Business Editor, Shay Thomas, coordinates all of the ads. Shay sells ads over the phone, and yes, she even goes out and sells businesses ads at their offices. Well, actually the other business staff members hit the streets and they do the actual selling. After the ads are sold Shay pastes, cuts, places, glues and types, calculates and magically transforms business cards and pictures into what you see in the book. Remember, ads pay for the Yearbook, BUY SOME!

Advertisements...162

CLOCKWISE: Hard at work, what a cute personal ad that would make, and touching up an ad.

How does the Business Staff raise money for funds?

We sell the ads, collect the money, then register them in the Ads Sales Notebook. Shay keeps track of how many half page ads, quarter page, etc. Then Shay gives the ad a page number and we then begin to cut, type, and proportion. Then off to the Publisher it goes. We did a lot of sales events. We had a raffle at the first home game, gambling against the scoreboard. We sold maroon and while balloons and we sold lots and lots of ads.

JENNIFER —

One day you will realize that you are unique in all the world; never let anyone tell you otherwise. Just keep on being 'you' — Never be phony and never try being something or someone you are NOT. You see, the easiest thing to be in the world is you, and the most difficult thing to be is what others want you to be. May you never, ever change — We love you just the way you are!

To Steve

I'd like to capture a rainbow and stick it in a big box . . . so that, any time you wanted to,
you could reach in and pull out a piece of sunshine.

I'd like to build you a mountain that you could call your very own — a place to find serenity in those times when you feel the need to be closer to yourself.

I'd like to be the one who's there with you when you're lonely or troubled or just need someone to hold on to . . .

I'd like to do all this and more to make your life happy.

But sometimes it isn't easy to do the things I would like to do or give the things I would like to give.

So . . . . . until I learn how to catch rainbows and build mountains let me do for you that which I know best . . . .
. . . . Let me simply be your friend.

Love,
Mom

JENNIFER LOIS ABBONDANZIO

TO TWO BEAUTIFUL YOUNG WOMEN WHO ARE DEEPLY LOVED AS OUR DAUGHTERS AND AS DAVID'S SISTERS.
WITH TREMENDOUS PRIDE IN WHAT YOU HAVE ACCOMPLISHED,
WE PROPOSE A TOAST TO YOUR FUTURE:

WITH ALL OUR LOVE

You want to fly free
And we want you to be Yourself.
But remember, please
Remember what we have learned:
That sometimes, even in clear air
There is turbulence, and Directions can become confused.

Oh, you will find your way,
Of that we have no doubt:
You would find it by yourself.

But with some problems you will face,
Some mistakes that may erase
Your gains,
Bear in mind that you are not alone,
And if that single word
Help
Has meaningful appeal,
You have only to ask.

— Richard Martin Stern

STUDENTS AGAINST DRIVING DRUNK

Wishes to Congratulate The Class of 1989

Special Thanks to Andrea Regina, our 70 devoted members and supporting families for help throughout the year.

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK

Shay and Leah,
To two of the most wonderful, thoughtful, mature, loving, generous, fun, sharing, hard-working, lovely, quiet and equally noisy, appreciative, responsible, caring, progressive, intriguing, talented, sweet and devoted people — our daughters; and to their equally wonderful friends. We are very proud of you. We wish you continued good friendship and good times.
Love and Congratulations!!
Bob and Donna Wheelock

Life is a journey . . . may your trip be joyous!

DEAR KATH

TO OUR SPECIAL GIRL!

YOU ARE SO UNIQUE AND HAVE HAD A VERY HARD TIME ACHIEVING THIS WITH ALL OF US TRYING TO KEEP YOU OUR LITTLE GIRL.

WE ARE PROUD OF THE WOMAN YOU HAVE BECOME.

WE KNOW THAT YOUR BROTHERS THAT HAVE GONE BEFORE YOU HAVE NOT ALWAYS BEEN THERE FOR YOU BECAUSE THEY WERE GROWING TOO. NOW THAT YOU'VE ALL GROWN, THEY WILL TRY TO BE THERE WHEN YOU NEED THEM.

REMEMBER DAVID AND STAY CLOSE TO HIM SO THAT HE WON'T LOSE THE CHANCE TO LOOK UP TO AND FOLLOW YOU.

TRY TO BE UNDERSTANDING OF THE ONES THAT CARE AND LOVE YOU ALMOST TOO MUCH.

WE WILL TRY TO WALK BEHIND AND LET YOU GO. JUST REMEMBER THAT WE WILL ALL BE THERE FOR YOU AS YOUR LIFE GOES FORWARD.

ALL OUR LOVE
DAD, MOM, DAVE, WALLY, MIKE, STEVE

COLOPHON

Panorama is an annual production of the yearbook staff of Weston High School, 444 Wellesley Street, Weston, Massachusetts 02193. It was distributed May 20-23, 1989.

Panorama was printed by Hunter Publishing Company, 2505 Empire Drive, P.O. Box 5867, Winston-Salem, North Carolina 27113. The number of copies printed was 400. This volume, the sixth, contains 208 pages in a 8½ x 11 inch format.

The approximate cost of producing Panorama1989, "It's Our Style," was approximately $20,000. Yearbooks were sold at $26 for seniors and $28 to underclassmen, both prices including the spring supplement. Panorama is a self-supporting institution. Funds were generated through patron and advertisement sales; and through an "M & M" fundraiser.

Senior portraits were taken by Tim Morse, Morse Photography, Carlisle, Massachusetts; or were handed in by individuals. Underclass pictures were taken by O'Connor School Pictures, Tewksbury, Massachusetts. Candid photos were taken by the yearbook staff photographers; by Mrs. Bancroft and members of her Photography class; and by Roberta Siegel, Weston, Massachusetts.

Panorama's cover was designed by the yearbook editors, aided by Arnie Lohman, Hunter Publisher's representative. The cover used was a white Lithograph with a black gradation screen, varying from 100 to ten percent. Pantone Matching System Color #199 (red) was used for designs and printing, with student names foil-stamped in silver. "It's Our" was printed in 72 point Lateinische, #211; while the word "Style" used Mistral, #212 in 112 point. The spine was printed in Helvetica, #104, in 36 point.

Sixteen pages in the opening section used the four-color process. Gradation screens of blue, red and yellow process colors were used on three of these pages.

Most body copy used 10-point Korinna, #190, set solid. Picture captions were set in 8-point Korinna Bold, #191; headlines in 36-point Korinna Bold, #191. Senior quotes were printed in 8-point Hobo, #213, with senior names in 9-point Hobo.

Run,
Fly . . .

Friends forever as time goes by.

LOVE ALWAYS,
Mom & Dad
Stef, Joe, & Gigi

May good fortune be with you
May your guiding light be strong
Build a stairway to heaven
Be a prince or a vagabond.
And may you never love in vain
And in our hearts you will remain
Forever young.

R. Stewart
